1       Please take notice that on November 1, 2012 at 8:00 a.m. in Courtroom 8 before the 2 Honorable William H. Alsup, pursuant to Rule 23(c)(2) and (e) of the Federal Rules of Civil 3 Procedure, Plaintiff hereby moves, unopposed, for preliminary approval of a class action settlement.
4 This motion is made on the grounds that the parties have reached a settlement of this action for 5 which preliminary approval is required. A copy of the Settlement Agreement and exhibits thereto 6 are attached to the accompanying memorandum in support as Exhibit 1.

7       This motion is based on this notice of motion, the accompanying memorandum, the 8 Settlement Agreement and exhibits attached thereto as Exhibit 1, and the Declarations of plaintiff's 9 lead counsel Mark Dearman and Seth Lehrman, attached to the memorandum as Exhibits 2 and 3, 10 respectively. This motion is further based on the papers on file in this action and such oral or 11 documentary evidence that may be presented at the hearing of this motion.

12 I. BACKGROUND OF LITIGATION AND SETTLEMENT

13       Plaintiff Colin Fraser ("Plaintiff") respectfully submits this memorandum in support of his 14 Unopposed Motion for Preliminary Approval of Class Action Settlement under Rule 23(c)(2) and (e) 15 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.<sup>1</sup> The parties resolved this Action after months of 16 negotiation, exchanges of information, retention of a joint, independent expert, and the mediation 17 expertise of Magistrate Judge Corley.

18       Plaintiff brought this putative class action pursuant to Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil 19 Procedure on behalf of himself and all others similarly situated as a member of the following class 20 (the "Class"): All United States residents who purchased an Asus Transformer Prime TF-201 21 Tablet ("Transformer Prime") and who have not already returned their device for a full refund. The 22 Settlement Class excludes Asus; any entity in which Asus has a controlling interest; Asus' directors, 23 officers, and employees; and Asus' legal representatives, successors, and assigns. In this case,

26       

27 Bill Vance are cooperating Class Members who spent a considerable amount of time and effort 28 assisting Proposed Class Counsel in the preparation of a multi-state consolidated complaint which, due to the proposed settlement, was never filed.

1 Plaintiff challenges Defendants' actions in connection with their marketing, advertising, and sale of 2 the Transformer Prime, which Plaintiff alleged was defective.

3       Asus designed, manufactured, marketed, advertised, and warranted the Transformer Prime to 4 consumers nationwide. In conjunction with each sale, Defendants marketed, advertised, and 5 warranted, among other things, that each Transformer Prime included a global positioning system 6 ("GPS"), satellite-based navigation, and wireless ("WiFi") capabilities, and was otherwise fit for the 7 ordinary purpose for which such goods are used and was free from defects in materials and 8 workmanship. See Complaint [Dkt. No. 1].

9       More specifically, Plaintiff alleges that the Transformer Prime contains a defect that results 10 in the significant loss or reduction of GPS because it was designed and manufactured with a metallic 11 unibody design. That is, the metallic properties of the design impede the performance of the GPS 12 when the device receives signals from satellites, and was reported to cause the WiFi to become 13 unreliable and weak. Indeed, following several media reports and consumer complaints regarding 14 the problems with the GPS functionality on the Transformer Prime, Asus publicly acknowledged on 15 its Facebook page that the defect did, in fact, exist.

16       On this basis, Plaintiff alleged seven causes of action in his Complaint, including violations 17 of various common laws and California consumer protection laws.

18           A. Procedural History of the Action

19       On February 9, 2012, Plaintiff filed the Action. On April 30, 2012, Defendants filed a 20 comprehensive motion to dismiss attacking each and every cause of action and the viability of 21 proceeding with a nationwide class action [Dkt. No. 17]. On several occasions, counsel for the 22 parties met and conferred on the issues raised in the motion to dismiss, including an in-person 23 meeting held on April 18, 2012. On May 4, 2012, Plaintiff filed a motion to be appointed as interim 24 class counsel [Dkt. No. 24] and on May 30, 2012, the Court entered an order temporarily appointing 25 Stuart A. Davidson and Mark Dearman of Robbins Geller Rudman & Dowd LLP, and Steven R.
26 Jaffe and Seth M. Lehrman of Farmer, Jaffe, Weissing, Edwards, Fistos & Lehrman, P.L., as Interim 27 Lead Counsel [Dkt. No. 36]. Subsequently, the parties requested an extension of the Interim Class 28 Counsel appointment and, with the approval of Magistrate Judge Corley, the Court extended the 1 temporary appointment until August 9, 2012 [Dkt. No. 39]. Thereafter, on August 9, 2012, the 2 parties filed a stipulation requesting a second extension of the Interim Class Counsel appointment to 3 permit counsel to file the instant motion, which the Court granted [Dkt. No. 43].

4           B.       The Mediation Process with Judge Corley

5           Once appointed as Interim Class Counsel and pursuant to guidance provided by this Court, 6 Plaintiff and Asus agreed to mediate the issues set forth in the Complaint before Magistrate Judge 7 Corley. The settlement discussions included two in-person, arm's-length mediations along with 8 numerous telephonic settlement conferences. The first in-person settlement conference took place 9 on June 7, 2012, and lasted several hours [Dkt. No. 37]. The second settlement conference took 10 place on July 20, 2012, and also lasted several hours [Dkt. No. 40]. Following both settlement 11 conferences, additional discussions and settlement negotiations were held between counsel for the 12 parties under the auspices of Judge Corley.

13           During the mediation process, Asus provided relevant documents and information to Plaintiff 14 regarding the core issues of the case, including causation, manufacturing, marketing, and sales data.
 15 Additionally, Dominique M. Hanssens, Professor of Marketing at the UCLA Anderson School of 16 Management in Los Angeles, California, was jointly retained by counsel for the parties and, through 17 an independent expert report and opinion, assisted the parties in determining a range of reasonable 18 values for the loss of GPS functionality. Dr. Hanssens opined that the reasonable range for the 19 monetary value of the defect of the GPS functionality in the Transformer Prime is $7.49 - $17.47 per 20 unit. Thus, a $17.00 cash payment is at the top of the established range.

21           As to WiFi, documents received from Asus confirmed that the performance of the 22 Transformer Prime's WiFi is within a range of acceptable performance for tablets. In addition, Asus 23 has agreed to provide additional discovery to Plaintiff on the WiFi issue prior to the hearing on 24 preliminary approval.

25           As a result of the exchange of documentation and information, the joint retention and opinion 26 of Professor Hanssens, and the expertise of Magistrate Judge Corley, the parties were able to reach 27 an agreement to resolve this Action on the evening of August 8, 2012, which was announced to the 28 Court on August 9, 2012. The proposed Settlement Agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit 1.

1 This Court set the preliminary approval hearing for November 1, 2012, at 8:00 a.m.

2 C. Summary of the Proposed Settlement<sup>2</sup>

3 The parties' Settlement Agreement proposes certification of a Settlement Class consisting of:

4 All United States residents who purchased an Asus Transformer Prime TF-201 5 Tablet and who have not already returned their device for a full refund. The 6 Settlement Class excludes Asus; any entity in which Asus has a controlling interest; 7 Asus' directors, officers, and employees; and Asus' legal representatives, 8 successors, and assigns.

9 The parties estimate that there are over 130,000 members of the proposed Settlement Class.

10 1. Individual Class Member Benefits

11 As more fully set forth in the Settlement Agreement (Ex. 1 hereto), the proposed settlement 12 provides substantial benefits to proposed Class Members, including, but not limited to, the 13 following:

14 a. Cash

15 $17 Cash Payment to Eligible Settlement Class Members who file a valid, extremely 16 simplified Claim Form.

17 b. Free Dongle

18 A free Asus GPS extension kit or Dongle as described at 19 <http://event.asus.com/ASUSPad/TF201GPS/>, which will remain available during the 20 Claims Period.

21 2. Notice

22 The parties' proposed notice plan is exceptionally robust and easily meets the requirements 23 of due process and Rule 23. The Settlement Agreement recommends that notice of this proposed 24 settlement be disseminated to proposed Settlement Class Members, at Asus' sole expense, as 25 follows:

26 a. Mailing

27 A copy of the Notice of Pendency and Proposed Settlement of Class Action, 28 substantially in the form attached to the Settlement Agreement as Exhibit A (the 29 "Class Notice"), together with the Claim Form (including the Instructions, Claim 30 Form, and Release), substantially in the form attached to the Settlement Agreement 31 as Exhibit C, shall be posted and available for download on a Settlement Website, 32 and shall be mailed at no charge to Class Members who call a toll-free number to be 33 established at Asus' expense ("Toll-Free Number"). This information shall remain 34 available on the Settlement Website until the last day of the Claims Period. All costs

---

28 <sup>2</sup> All terms herein are given the same meaning as defined in the parties' Settlement Agreement.

1 and expenses associated with complying with this provision shall be borne 2 exclusively by Asus.

3                   b.       Pushed to Device

4                   Asus shall also send Notice to each Class Member, by pushing a copy of the 5 Summary Notice substantially in the form attached to the Settlement Agreement as 6 Exhibit B to each Class Member's Transformer Prime Tablet. The Summary Notice 7 shall: (i) notify Settlement Class Members about the benefits available through the 8 settlement; (ii) provide the Settlement Website address with a description that the 9 Class Notice and Claim Form are available on the Settlement Website; (iii) provide 10 the Toll-Free Number where Settlement Class Members can call to obtain a Class 11 Notice and Claim Form; and (iv) inform Settlement Class Members of the Asus 12 Dongle Program described in Section C(1)(b) above. All costs and expenses 13 associated with complying with this provision shall be borne exclusively by Asus.

14                   c.       Internet

15                   Asus shall cause a copy of the Summary Notice to be published on its own website 16 and Facebook page. A Settlement Website will also be established on the Internet 17 where Class Members may view and download the Settlement Notice and Claim 18 Form and obtain answers to Frequently Asked Questions.

19                   D.       Actions Requested of the Court

20                   By this motion, Plaintiff respectfully requests the Court to enter a Conditional Approval 21 Order granting preliminary approval of the proposed settlement in the form accompanying this 22 motion, which is substantially in the form attached as Exhibit D to the Settlement Agreement. That 23 Order would authorize the tasks necessary to allow the proposed settlement approval process to 24 commence. Those tasks include: (1) conditionally certifying the proposed Settlement Class; (2) 25 preliminarily approving the Settlement Agreement; (3) approving and authorizing dissemination of 26 Class Notice to the proposed Settlement Class Members; (4) establishing a schedule by which 27 Settlement Class Members may exclude themselves from the Settlement Class or object to any 28 aspect of the proposed settlement; (5) appointing Class Counsel and the Class Representative; and 29 (6) setting a date for a Fairness Hearing.<sup>3</sup>

3 Proposed Class Counsel is not requesting the Court to consider attorneys' fees or reimbursement of expenses at preliminary approval. Instead, Proposed Class Counsel will seek an award of attorneys' fees and expenses after the Claims Period has expired and on the Final Approval Hearing Date.

1           II. THE COURT SHOULD PRELIMINARILY CERTIFY THE PROPOSED
 2           SETTLEMENT CLASS

3           Plaintiff requests that the Court provisionally certify this Action as a class action under Rule 4           23(b)(3) for the purpose of settlement. This Court has recently articulated the standard for class 5           certification in connection with a motion for preliminary approval of a class action settlement:

6           “A party seeking class certification must affirmatively demonstrate his compliance 7           *with [Rule 23]—that is, he must be prepared to prove that there are *in fact 8           sufficiently numerous parties, common questions of law or fact, etc.” Wal-Mart
 9           Stores, Inc. v. Dukes, — U.S. —, 131 S. Ct. 2541, 2551, 180 L. Ed. 2d 374
 10          (2011) (emphasis in original). The party seeking class certification bears the burden 11          of showing that each of the four requirements of Rule 23(a) and at least one of the 12          requirements of Rule 23(b) are met. Hanlon v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d 1011, 1022 13          (9th Cir. 1998). Pursuant to Rule 23(a), for a named plaintiff to obtain class 14          certification, the court must find: (1) numerosity of the class, (2) common questions 15          of law or fact, (3) that the named plaintiff's claims and defenses are typical of the 16          claims or defenses of the class, and (4) that the named plaintiff and plaintiff's counsel 17          can adequately protect the interests of the class.

18          Vallabhapurapu v. Burger King Corp., No. C 11-00667 WHA, 2012 WL 2568183, at *2 (N.D. Cal.
 19          July 2, 2012) (Alsup, J.).<sup>4</sup>

20          That is, “[t]he judge should make a preliminary determination that the proposed class 21          satisfies the criteria set out in Rule 23(a) and at least one of the subsections of Rule 23(b).”
 22          MANUAL FOR COMPLEX LITIGATION (FOURTH) §21.632; see also 4 William B. Rubenstein, Alba 23          Conte & Herbert B. Newberg, NEWBERG ON CLASS ACTIONS §11.25 (4th ed. 2010).

24          Provisional certification is an appropriate device where an agreement to settle occurs before a 25          class is certified for litigation. See, e.g., Jaffe v. Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., No. C-06-3903 TEH, 26          2008 WL 346417, at *2-*3 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 7, 2008); In re Portal Software, Inc. Sec. Litig., No. C-27          03-5138 VRW, 2007 WL 1991529, at *2-*3 (N.D. Cal. June 30, 2007). Although Asus would, if 28          class certification were contested on the merits, argue otherwise, the parties have agreed for purposes 29          of settlement that the proposed Settlement Class may be certified under Rule 23(b)(3). The 30          Settlement Agreement and the proposed notices provide that Settlement Class Members will have 31          the opportunity to exclude themselves from the Settlement Class as Rules 23(c)(2)(B)(v) and 32          23(e)(4) require.

33          <sup>4</sup> Internal citations and quotations omitted and emphasis added, unless otherwise noted.

1           A.       The Numerosity Requirement Is Met

2           Rule 23(a)(1) allows a class action to be maintained if “joinder of all members is 3 impracticable” owing, in primary part, to the large number of people in the proposed class. Fed. R.
 4 Civ. P. 23(a)(1); see also Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1019. Generally, the numerosity requirement is 5 satisfied when the class comprises 40 or more members. Celano v. Marriot Int'l, Inc., 242 F.R.D.
 6 544, 549 (N.D. Cal. 2007). Here, Defendants sold 133,306 Transformer Prime tablets, not including 7 returned units, in the United States. Size renders joinder impracticable here, and, Plaintiff believes, 8 satisfies the numerosity requirement. See Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1019.

9           B.       The Commonality Requirement Is Met

10          Rule 23(a)(2) allows a class action to be maintained if “there are questions of law or fact 11 common to the class.” “The existence of shared legal issues with divergent factual predicates is 12 sufficient, as is a common core of salient facts coupled with disparate legal remedies within the 13 class.” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1019. Here, all proposed Class Members are Transformer Prime 14 owners.

15          Plaintiff alleges the same legal theories for all proposed Class Members:

16           (a) whether Defendants were negligent in the design, manufacturing, and 17 distribution of the Transformer Prime;

18           (b) whether the Transformer Prime designed, manufactured, marketed, 19 distributed, or sold by Defendants was unfit for its intended purpose and use because of its design;

20           (c) whether Defendants breached any warranties in selling the Transformer 21 Prime;

22           (d) whether Defendants intentionally or negligently misrepresented material facts 23 relating to the character and quality of the Transformer Prime;

24           (e) whether Defendants engaged in false or deceptive advertising;

25           (f) whether Defendants knew that their representations were false, misleading, 26 and reasonably likely to deceive but continued to disseminate them;

27           (g) whether Defendants violated various state consumer protection laws as set 28 forth herein;

- (h) whether Defendants were unjustly enriched by its acts complained of herein;
- (i) whether Plaintiff and the Class have sustained monetary loss and the proper measure of that loss;
- (j) whether Plaintiff and the Class are entitled to punitive damages; and
- (k) whether Plaintiff and the Class Members are entitled to declaratory and injunctive relief.

7 Thus, these common contentions are “capable of classwide resolution.” Dukes, 131 S. Ct. at 2551.
8 Accordingly, Plaintiff believes the commonality requirement is satisfied.

C. The Typicality Requirement Is Met

10 Rule 23(a)(3) requires that “the claims or defenses of the representative parties [must be] 11 typical of the claims or defenses of the class.” “The test of typicality is whether other members have 12 the same or similar injury, whether the action is based on conduct which is not unique to the named 13 plaintiffs, and whether other class members have been injured by the same course of conduct.” 14 Hanon v. Dataproducts Corp., 976 F.2d 497, 508 (9th Cir. 1992). “[U]nder the rule’s permissive 15 standards, representative claims are ‘typical’ if they are reasonably co-extensive with those of absent 16 class members; they need not be substantially identical.” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1020.

17 Here, Plaintiff, as the proposed Class Representative, testified at deposition that he 18 experienced difficulties using the Transformer Prime's GPS and WiFi and shares an interest in 19 redressing those claims with all proposed Class Members. Thus, Plaintiff believes his claims are 20 typical of those of the proposed Settlement Class, and Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(3) is met.

D. Plaintiff and Class Counsel Are Adequate

Finally, Rule 23(a)(4) and Rule 23(g) together require that the named plaintiff and proposed class counsel be able to “fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class.” “Resolution of two questions determines legal adequacy: (1) do the named plaintiffs and their counsel have any conflicts of interest with other class members and (2) will the named plaintiffs and their counsel prosecute the action vigorously on behalf of the class?” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1020.

27 Here, neither Plaintiff nor his counsel have any interests antagonistic to the proposed 28 Settlement Class. Furthermore, Plaintiff and Proposed Class Counsel have vigorously prosecuted

1 this Action on behalf of the proposed Settlement Class, including filing and service of the lawsuit, 2 filing initial disclosures, initiating and engaging in arm's-length settlement negotiations with defense
 3 counsel, requesting confidential documents and data from Asus, analyzing the documents and data 4 Asus provided, retention of a joint expert with Asus, and moving the Action forward to excellent 5 resolution. The attorneys who represent the proposed Class Representative are well-qualified to 6 serve as Class Counsel and indeed have handled similar nationwide high technology class actions to 7 successful resolution in the past. The qualifications and experience of Proposed Class Counsel are 8 set forth in the Declarations of Mark Dearman and Seth Lehrman, attached hereto as Exhibits 2 and 9 3, respectively.

10       E.     The Proposed Settlement Class Meets the Requirements of Rule 11           23(b)(3)

12       Once subsection (a) prerequisites are satisfied, Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3) provides that a class 13 action can be maintained where the questions of law and fact common to members of the class 14 predominate over any questions affecting only individuals, and the class action mechanism is 15 superior to the other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy.
 16 Pierce v. County of Orange, 526 F.3d 1190, 1197 n.5 (9th Cir. 2008). Because settlement is 17 proposed, the Court need not consider manageability. See Amchem Prods., Inc. v. Windsor, 521 U.S.
 18 591, 620 (1997) (“Confronted with a request for settlement-only class certification, a district court 19 need not inquire whether the case, if tried, would present intractable management problems, for the 20 proposal is that there be no trial.”).

21       The predominance inquiry looks to whether a proposed class is sufficiently cohesive to 22 warrant adjudication by representation. Id. at 623. Common issues predominate where a common 23 nucleus of facts and potential legal remedies dominate the litigation. See Chamberlain v. Ford Motor 24 Co., 402 F.3d 952, 962 (9th Cir. 2005). Here, Plaintiff’s claims arise out of the same set of operative 25 facts and are premised on the same legal theories. For settlement purposes, where the manageability 26 of trying the case need not be considered, the predominance requirement is satisfied.

27       In addition, a class action is superior to any other method available to fairly, adequately, and 28 efficiently resolve the proposed Settlement Class Members’ claims. Without a class action, most

1 would find litigation costs prohibitive, and if they did sue in large numbers, multiple individual 2 actions would be an inefficient use of the Court's and parties' resources. Accordingly, Plaintiff 3 believes a class action is the superior method of adjudicating this controversy.

4 III. THE COURT SHOULD PRELIMINARILY APPROVE THE 5 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AS ‘FAIR, REASONABLE, AND 6 ADEQUATE’ UNDER FED. R. CIV. P. 23(e)(2)

7 Following certification for settlement purposes, Rule 23(e) requires that the Court make a 8 preliminary determination of fairness:

9 Review of a proposed class action settlement generally involves two hearings. First, 10 counsel submit the proposed terms of settlement and the judge makes a preliminary 11 fairness evaluation. In some cases, this initial evaluation can be made on the basis of 12 information already known, supplemented as necessary by briefs, motions, or 13 informal presentations by the parties. If the case is presented for both class 14 certification and settlement approval, the certification hearing and preliminary 15 fairness evaluation can usually be combined. ... The judge must make a preliminary 16 determination on the fairness, reasonableness, and adequacy of the settlement terms 17 and must direct the preparation of notice of the certification, proposed settlement, 18 and date of the final fairness hearing.

19 MANUAL FOR COMPLEX LITIGATION (FOURTH) §21.632; see also 4 NEWBERG ON CLASS ACTIONS 20 §11.25.

21 After the preliminary fairness evaluation has been made, the class has been certified for 22 settlement purposes, and notice has been issued, the Court holds a Fairness Hearing to show that the 23 proposed settlement is truly fair, reasonable, and adequate. See MANUAL FOR COMPLEX LITIGATION 24 (FOURTH) §21.633-34; 4 NEWBERG ON CLASS ACTIONS §11:25.

25 Preliminary approval requires only that the Court evaluate whether the proposed settlement: 26 (1) was negotiated at arm's-length, and (2) is within the range of possible litigation outcomes such 27 that “probable cause” exists to disseminate notice and begin the formal fairness process. See 28 MANUAL FOR COMPLEX LITIGATION (FOURTH) §21.632-33. The Ninth Circuit has identified a number of factors used to assess whether a settlement proposal is fundamentally fair, adequate, and reasonable: (1) the strength of the plaintiffs' case and the risk, expense, complexity, and likely duration of further litigation; (2) the amount offered in settlement; (3) the extent of discovery completed and the stage of the proceedings; (4) the experience and views of counsel; (5) the reaction of the class members to the proposed settlement; and (6) any collusion between the parties. See In re

1 Mego Fin. Corp. Sec. Litig., 213 F.3d 454, 458-60 (9th Cir. 2000). To preliminarily assess the 2 reasonableness of the parties' proposed settlement, the Court should review both the substance of the 3 deal and the process utilized to arrive at the settlement. See In re Tableware Antitrust Litig., 484 F.
4 Supp. 2d 1078, 1080 (N.D. Cal. 2007) ("preliminary approval . . . has both a procedural and a 5 substantive component"). Each relevant factor supports the conclusion that the proposed settlement 6 is fundamentally fair, adequate, and reasonable.

A. The Strength of Plaintiff's Case and the Risk, Expense, Complexity, and Likely Duration of Further Litigation

The heart of Plaintiff’s claim is that Asus’ Transformer Prime contains a defect that results in the reduction and/or elimination of GPS and that the WiFi reception and performance can be intermittent or weak. While Plaintiff and Proposed Class Counsel believe that their claims are meritorious and qualify for litigation on a class-wide basis, Asus has raised and would continue to raise challenges to the claims’ legal and factual bases, as well as the propriety of class certification. Although the parties differ as to the likelihood of Plaintiff ultimately prevailing on his motion for class certification and after judgment and appeal, it is apparent that the proposed Class has some risk with proceeding to litigate.

By contrast, the proposed settlement immediately provides the certainty of valuable benefits to the proposed Class Members. Among other benefits, the proposed settlement offers all proposed Class Members $17.00 in cash and the right to receive a free “dongle” for an additional three months following the Notice Date. See, supra, at 3.

If this case is not settled, it would be necessary to continue prosecuting the litigation through class certification, a trial and, even if successful there, through a potential appeal. There is certainty that any potential benefits to the proposed Class would be delayed for months or years if the case proceeds in litigation.

This Settlement Agreement, like all settlements, strikes a balance between the maximum possible recovery that the proposed Class might obtain by pursuing litigation to the very end, and the risk of failing to obtain any recovery should Asus prevail in litigation. In determining whether the terms of this Settlement Agreement are sufficiently fair, adequate, and reasonable to justify the

1 dissemination of Class Notice and the scheduling of a Fairness Hearing, the Court need only inquire 2 at this juncture whether the consideration provided to the proposed settlement falls within the 3 reasonable range of settlement “by considering the likelihood of a plaintiffs’ or defense verdict, the 4 potential recovery, and the chances of obtaining it, discounted to present value.” Rodriguez v. West
 5 Publ’g Corp., 563 F.3d 948, 965 (9th Cir. 2009) (citing MANUAL FOR COMPLEX LITIGATION 6 (FOURTH) §21.62). The answer to that question is most certainly “yes.”

7 The advantages to the proposed Class Members of approving the proposed settlement and 8 quickly distributing to them the consideration provided exceeds what is likely to occur should this 9 case proceed on a litigation track. For this reason, the strength of Plaintiff’s case and the risk, 10 expense, complexity, and likely duration of further litigation suggest that the proposed Settlement 11 Agreement is fair, reasonable, and adequate under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(2).

12 B. The Amount Offered in Settlement

13 In light of the uncertainties of litigation, the value of the proposed settlement offer is 14 certainly adequate, if not excellent. Asus will provide all proposed eligible Settlement Class 15 Members a $17.00 cash payment, which is at the very high end of the range of diminution of value 16 of the Transformer Prime with the GPS defect as opined by Professor Hanssens. Plaintiff’s 17 counsel’s preliminary investigation reflects that the dongle’s retail value exceeds $10 and Plaintiff 18 has requested additional discovery to corroborate the accuracy of this preliminary estimate. As 19 noted, the cash portion of the settlement was selected, in part, based on the independent analysis 20 performed by Dr. Hanssens, who assisted the parties in determining a range of reasonable values for 21 the loss of GPS functionality and prepared an independent report regarding same. Dr. Hanssens 22 opined that the reasonable range for the monetary value of the defect of the GPS functionality in the 23 Transformer Prime is $7.49 - $17.47. The $17.00 cash payment is at the top of this range.

24 C. The Scope of Release

25 The scope of release is sufficiently narrow. Settlement Class Members who do not opt out of 26 the settlement will release only those claims that were asserted in the instant Action.
 27
 28

1           D.     The Extent of Discovery Completed and the Stage of Proceedings

2           The amount of discovery obtained prior to settlement is a factor in determining the fairness of 3 settlement. See Molski v. Gleich, 318 F.3d 937, 953 (9th Cir. 2003), cited in Rodriguez, 563 F.3d at 4 963 (“the extent of discovery completed and the stage of the proceedings” are factors in considering 5 the fairness of a proposed settlement). Here, as the courts have repeatedly encouraged, the parties 6 reached settlement relatively early in the litigation. See Franklin v. Kaypro Corp., 884 F.2d 1222, 7 1225 (9th Cir. 1989) (“In general, the policy of federal courts is to promote settlement before trial.
 8 ‘Since it obviously eases crowded court dockets and results in savings to the litigants and the judicial 9 system, settlement should be facilitated at as early a stage of the litigation as possible.’”) (citing Fed.
 10 R. Civ. P. 16(c), advisory committee note); In re M.D.C. Holdings Sec. Litig., No. CV89-0090 E 11 (M), 1990 WL 454747, at *7 (S.D. Cal. Aug. 30, 1990) (“The judicial system and the public benefit 12 from such prompt resolution of complex, potentially protracted litigation. Early resolution of 13 complex cases is therefore much to be desired. It avoids having the court deal with all the problems a 14 protracted, complex case can create and frees its resources so that other matters can be processed 15 more expeditiously. Early settlements benefit everyone involved in the process and everything that 16 can be done to encourage such settlements—especially in complex class action cases—should be 17 done.”).

18           Nevertheless, Plaintiff’s counsel did, in fact, obtain hundreds of pages of detailed 19 confidential information regarding the Transformer Prime’s design, testing, and sales, among other 20 things, from a confidential information exchange during settlement negotiations with defense 21 counsel that began in April 2012 and continued for months thereafter. In addition, prior to the 22 preliminary hearing, Asus will provide additional confirmatory discovery in order to continue to 23 confirm the fairness, reasonableness, and adequacy of the proposed settlement, which such discovery 24 shall include, but not be limited to: (1) class size; (2) the Dongle and the Asus Dongle Program; and 25 (3) WiFi-related issues. This discovery will be completed before the November 1, 2012 preliminary 26 approval hearing date.

27

28

1           E. The Experience and Views of Counsel

2           Proposed Class Counsel believe, based on their extensive past experience in class action 3 cases, that the proposed settlement, rather than continued litigation, is undoubtedly the best option
 4 for the proposed Settlement Class. To be sure, it is unlikely that Plaintiff and Proposed Class 5 Counsel would be able to obtain much more from a trial than the Class will receive in this proposed 6 settlement, as $17.00 in cash is at the high end of the range of values for the GPS defect.

7           Proposed Class Counsel's collective experience suggests that the parties' settlement is a 8 strong result for the proposed Class and warrants the Court's approval. Proposed Class Counsel's 9 support for the proposed settlement confers a presumption of correctness. See Rodriguez, 563 F.3d 10 at 965 ("This circuit has long deferred to the private consensual decision of the parties.") (citing 11 Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1027). See also Linney v. Cellular Alaska P'ship, C-96-3008 DLJ, 1997 WL 12 450064, at *5 (N.D. Cal. July 18, 1997) ("The involvement of experienced class action counsel and 13 the fact that the settlement agreement was reached in arm's length negotiations, after relevant 14 discovery had taken place create a presumption that the agreement is fair."), aff'd, 151 F.3d 1234
 15 (9th Cir. 1998); Duhame v. John Hancock Mut. Life. Ins. Co., 177 F.R.D. 54, 68 (D. Mass. 1997)
 16 (settlement is presumed fair where it is the product of arm's-length negotiations); In re Orthopedic 17 Bone Screw Prods. Liab. Litig., 176 F.R.D. 158, 184 (E.D. Pa. 1997) ("Significant weight should be 18 attributed 'to the belief of experienced counsel that the settlement is in the best interest of the 19 class.'") (quoting Austin v. Pa. Dep't of Corrections, 876 F. Supp. 1437, 1472 (E.D. Pa. 1995)).

20           Proposed Class Counsel are experienced class action litigators who have successfully 21 litigated complex high-tech oriented cases in the past. After weighing the risks and benefits 22 associated with litigating this case, Proposed Class Counsel reached the opinion that proposed 23 settlement is in the best interest of the proposed Class. (See Declarations of Mark Dearman and Seth 24 Lehrman, attached hereto as Exhibits 2 and 3, respectively.) The Court should afford that 25 determination considerable weight. See id. at 20-21. Therefore, this factor weighs in favor of 26 preliminarily approving the terms of the proposed settlement.

27

28

1                   F. The Reaction of Proposed Class Members to the Proposed Settlement

2                  The reaction of the Class Members to the proposed settlement is not as meaningful a 3 consideration when the Court is determining whether to preliminarily approve settlement because 4 notice has not been issued and Class Members are, as yet, unaware of the proposed settlement. Class 5 Members will receive substantial, direct notice of the proposed settlement if it is preliminarily 6 approved, and will have every opportunity to voice their opinions on every single aspect of the 7 proposed settlement.

8                   G. Lack of Collusion Between the Parties

9                  The trial court's evaluation of the settlement "must be limited to the extent necessary to reach 10 a reasoned judgment that the agreement is not the product of fraud or overreaching by, or collusion 11 between, the negotiating parties, and that the settlement, taken as a whole, is fair, reasonable and 12 adequate to all concerned." Officers for Justice v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 688 F.2d 615, 625 (9th Cir.
 13 1982). As discussed above, the proposed settlement is the product of extensive arms-length 14 negotiations among well-informed, sophisticated counsel. Attorneys' fees were never discussed and 15 will not be discussed until after the Claims Period, selected by the parties and approved by the Court, 16 expires. Both sides demonstrated by their actions that they are prepared to litigate this case through 17 final judgment, if no acceptable resolution could be reached. In short there can be no question of 18 any collusion. Settlement negotiations were a drawn-out process over many months, utilizing the 19 expertise and services of Magistrate Judge Corley, who has the parties' sincere thanks and 20 appreciation for her hard efforts. See generally Satchell v. Fed. Exp. Corp., No. C 03-2659 SI, 2007 21 WL 1114010, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 13, 2007) ("The assistance of an experienced mediator in the 22 settlement process confirms that the settlement is non-collusive.").

23                   IV. THE PROPOSED NOTICE IS ADEQUATE AND SHOULD BE 24 APPROVED

25                  Rule 23(e)(1) provides that "[t]he court must direct notice in a reasonable manner to all class 26 members who would be bound by the proposal." The MANUAL FOR COMPLEX LITIGATION 27 recommends that "[o]nce the judge is satisfied as to the certifiability of the class and the results of 28 the initial inquiry into the fairness, reasonableness, and adequacy of the settlement, notice of a

1 formal Rule 23(e) fairness hearing is given to the class members. For economy, the notice under 2 Rule 23(c)(2) and the Rule 23(e) notice are sometimes combined.” MANUAL FOR COMPLEX 3 LITIGATION (FOURTH) §21.633. Combined notice helps to avoid confusion that separate notifications 4 of certification and settlement may produce. In evaluating a notice program, therefore, the relevant 5 question is “whether the class as a whole had notice adequate to flush out whatever objections might 6 reasonably be raised to the settlement.” Torrisi v. Tucson Elec. Power Co., 8 F.3d 1370, 1375 (9th 7 Cir. 1993).

8 Here, the proposed notice plan mirrors the notice plan recently approved by this Court in the 9 Burger King litigation, if not exceeds its reach. See Vallabhapurapu v. Burger King Corp., No. C 10 11-00667 WHA, Order Regarding Notice of Class Action and Proposed Settlement and Setting 11 Fairness Hearing Date (N.D. Cal. July 2, 2012) (Alsup. J.).

12 The proposed notice plan in this case is to disseminate notice to the Class by Push Notice and 13 by publication on the Internet. Copies of the various Notice forms are attached to the Settlement 14 Agreement (Ex. 1 hereto) as Exhibits A to C. The electronic Settlement Notice will be made 15 available via the Internet on a Settlement Website, on Asus’ website, and on Asus’ Facebook page.
 16 The electronic notices will provide recipients with a link to the full notices posted on the Settlement 17 Website and a Toll-Free Number for more information or to obtain a mailed copy. And perhaps 18 more importantly, the Push Notice will be sent directly to each member of the Settlement Class who 19 continues to own and use their Transformer Prime, which they would have purchased within the past 20 year. The Court should, therefore, approve the proposed Notice and notice plan.<sup>5</sup>

21 V. THE COURT SHOULD ADOPT THE PARTIES’ PROPOSED SCHEDULE 22 FOR CONSIDERING FINAL APPROVAL OF THE SETTLEMENT

23 The parties propose to the Court a schedule that is reasonably expeditious, yet gives all 24 interested persons a full opportunity to learn about the proposed settlement and have their views 25 considered. The parties request that all notices be completed no later than December 5, 2012 or 30
 26 days after the entry of a Conditional Approval Order. The parties further request that opening briefs

27 <sup>5</sup> Asus has further agreed to provide CAFA notice to the appropriate state authorities following 28 preliminary approval.

1 in support of final approval of the proposed settlement be filed no later than February 13, 2012 or 30 2 days prior to the Final Approval Hearing date and that Class Members' objections and exclusions be 3 filed no later than 21 days before the Final Approval Hearing date. Finally, Plaintiff respectfully 4 requests an opportunity to file reply briefs addressing any objections ten days prior to the Final 5 Approval Hearing date.

6 VI. CONCLUSION

7 For the reasons discussed above, Plaintiff requests that the Court enter the Conditional 8 Approval Order served herewith, which is substantially in the form attached as Exhibit D to the 9 Settlement Agreement (Ex. 1 hereto).
